PERFECTLY FRATERNAL

SHE stood upon the step above me,
 Asking coyly, "Do you love me?"
 (Anything wrong in that?)
 "I've loved you long, I'll love you ever,"
 I answered, "I'll deceive you never!"
 (Anything wrong in that?)

She placed her hands upon my shoulder,
 Nestled closely while I told her—
 (Anything wrong in that?)
 Her curls went wandering, wayward tresses,
 They minded not my warm caresses—
 (Anything wrong in that?)

The moonbeams lightly shimmered o'er her,
 Revealed her cheek—I stood before her—
 (Anything wrong in that?)
 I caught her in my arms and—kissed her—
 The darling girl—why, she's my sister—
 (Anything wrong in that?)

DAYS OF DECEMBER

NINETEEN HUNDRED SIXTEEN

One wish ere yet the long year ends,
 Let's close it with a parting rhyme,
 A pledge, a hand to all our friends
 As fits the merry Christmas time:
 On life's wide scene you, too, have parts,
 That fate ere long shall bid you play;
 Good night; with honest, gentle hearts,
 A kindly greeting go away.

—Thackeray.

QUAKER TIRES

"MILES CHEAPER"

It is not unusual to have
QUAKER TIRES run from 5,000 to 9,000 miles.

Records are on file where from 13,000 to 20,000 were obtained.

QUAKER RED and GRAY
INNER TUBES

Order a set of Quakers to-day.

T. T. T. Non Skid (Pat. May, 1913)

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1

A lot of men credited with "bullhead luck" used hard work and economy for bait.

—Uncle Philander.

"For there are women
set-apart for friendship - (Janet was one of them), - as others are set-apart for love."
— Mrs. Humphrey Ward in Hansel.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2

A hundred people are willing to lend their ears where one will lend a hand.

—The Gentle Cynic.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 3

Any individual can be, in time, what he earnestly desires to be.

—J. H. Randall.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30

A bank book provides a reliable guide on your travels along the road to prosperity.

—Uncle Philander.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 31

So, trust in the Weaver's wisdom,
In His love and unfailing care,
And the fabric of life, completed,
Someday will be wondrous fair.

—A. W. Dewar.

Billy's Christmas

WHAT shall I give to that imp, Billy Brown?"
 Old Santa Claus said with a sigh and a frown.
 "Last Christmas I gave him a drum and a fife,
 A hammer and nails and a carpenter's knife.
 He soon spoiled the fife—stuffed it up shooting peas;
 Drove nails in the drum till its noise failed to please,
 Lost track of his hammer and broke the knife's blades,
 But not till he cut two of mother's best shades.
 The things he tears up and the things he breaks down!
 Oh, what shall I give to that imp, Billy Brown?"

Then Santa Claus chuckled. His old brow grew clear.
 "I know how I'll handle that youngster this year!"
 And so, when the snowflakes of Christmas swept down
 And out of his blankets jumped young Billy Brown,
 He found in his stocking, all twisted and soiled,
 The odds and the ends of the toys he had spoiled;
 The head of a drum and the tail of a dog,
 The hind legs and back of a shiny tin frog,
 Some leaves of a book and a knife handle, scarred,
 Old Santa had found out in Billy's back yard;
 And he read a short note
 That old Santa Claus wrote:
 "Dear Billy: Take care of these beautiful toys—
 The kind I am giving to bad little boys."

—William F. Kirk.
